4-H and F. F. A. Junior Fair Winners Listed

The Junior fair, important and lively division of the annual county fair, closed Friday, and youthful participants returned to their homes laden with ribbons and awards.

Final judging of booths and exhibits by members of county 4-H clubs and Future Farmers of America was done Friday and winners were announced.

One of the closing events of the Junior fair was the 4-H club style review, staged Friday afternoon. Approximately 70 girls modeled the costumes they had created with pin and needle during the summer vacation period.

Miss Jane Gruber of Claridon and Miss Betty Denman of Waldo were announcers. Mrs. Christine Cook, home demonstration agent of the county agricultural extension office, explained the order of the show and introduced Miss Gruber and Miss Denman. Mrs. Cook is in charge of 4-H club activities in the county.

Miss Juanita Behner of Agosta and Miss Joan Smith of Claridon, along with Miss Denman and Miss Gruber, were members of the Junior fair board.

Mrs. Oliver Lavender, home economics specialist of Ostrander judged the winners. She based her decisions on construction, appearance, becomingness, suitability to the age of the girls, occasion for which garment was intended, fit, design, style and individuality.

The show was divided into four groups: dresses for home and play, dresses for school, street or sport, dress-up-dresses, and complete costumes. Winners in each group are listed below according to their places:

Home and Play: Barbara Kaelber of Waldo, first; Barbara Kaelber of Waldo, second; Betty Bell of Prospect.

"Share Your Home" Campaign Pushed by Marion Group

Marion's new "Share Your Home" campaign which will continue through September, was well under way today with one committee in charge renewing its appeal for residents of the city to open their homes to war workers.

The committee hopes to find quarters for dozens of war workers by appealing to Marion residents to rent rooms that can be spared for this purpose.

Through the war housing center service maintained at the Chamber of Commerce war workers seeking quarters are brought in contact with persons willing to rent one or more rooms of their homes. The current campaign is seeking to encourage Marion families with a room to spare to register at the housing center.

The committee in charge of the drive consists of John Artopoulos, Ed C. Watters, Rev. S. M. Inman, Louis Marsh and Mrs. John Jacoby. Louis E. Mitchell of the Chamber of Commerce serves as secretary of the war housing center.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Munson have received word that their son, Sgt. Ray Munson, has been awarded a decoration for one year good conduct. He is stationed at Ft. Lewis, Wash.

The third anniversary of the Woman's Society for Christian Service was observed in the Methodist church Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Edgar Lightfoot presided and was assisted by Mrs. Howard Bailey and Mrs. John McElhenny.

Reports were given by circle by their leaders, Mrs. Christina Trumbo, Mrs. Paul Owen, Mrs. C. C. Holliday, Mrs. H. H. Bailey, Mrs. LeRoy Thew and a general report of all circles by Mr. Albert Amstutz.

The program of music and playlets was given by Mrs. William Trihaft, Mrs. S. S. Kramp, Mrs. Bailey, Misses Yola Trapp and Helen Oberlinner.

THE 3rd WAR LOAN DRIVE STARTS —TO BACK THE INVASION!

What you will be asked to do—

MARK WELL the date—Thursday, September 9th. For on that day you must answer to your country's call.

On that day, the 3rd War Loan Drive opens. To you—and to every other true American—a clarion call goes forth to rally to the support of our flag.

You will be asked to back our fighting forces to the very limit of your resources. You will be asked to go ALL-OUT FOR INVASION by investing in EXTRA War Bonds—more War Bonds than you perhaps think you can possibly afford.

To meet the national quota, every individual in the country who earns a wage or draws an income or has accumulated funds must invest, if he possibly can, in at least one EXTRA $100 War Bond. Those who can, must invest more—thousands of dollars' worth more. Each and every one must do his full part.

Scrape up the money from every source you can . . . turn in all the loose cash you carry with you . . . dig out what you had tucked away "just in case." Go without pleasures, luxuries, even necessities this September. And give our fighting men the things they need to fight with—and win.

These men are throwing everything they have into this fierce invasion push. They are giving their blood, their lives. No one can put a price on such courage, self-sacrifice, devotion. But you can show you're with them to the limit! You can say it with Bonds . . . EXTRA Bonds this month.

World's Safest Investments

For this 3rd War Loan, you will be offered your choice of various government securities. Choose the one that fits your requirements.

United States War Savings Bonds Series "E"; gives you back $4 for every $3 when the bond matures. Interest: 2.9% a year, compounded semi-annually, if held to maturity. Denominations: $25, $50, $100, $500, $1,000. Redemption: Anytime 60 days after issue date. Price: 75% of maturity value.

2½% Treasury Bonds of 1964-1969; readily marketable, acceptable as bank collateral. Redeemable at par and accrued interest for the purpose of satisfying Federal estate taxes. Dated September 15, 1943; due December 15, 1969. Denominations: $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, $100,000 and $1,000,000. Price: par and accrued interest.

Other securities: Series "C" Savings Notes; ½% Certificates of Indebtedness; 2% Treasury Bonds of 1951-1953; United States Savings Bonds series "F"; United States Savings Bonds series "G".

Status of Rome Uncertain; Law on Open Cities Written Before Planes

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—A major perplexity of this war is the status of Rome. The city is a prize which the Axis powers have been fighting for since the beginning of the war. The city is a prize which the Axis powers have been fighting for since the beginning of the war. The city is a prize which the Axis powers have been fighting for since the beginning of the war.

Suspicious
I think the real root of our policy was that Eisenhower's headquarters were suspicious of Italian ability truly to demilitarize the city. They knew the Germans had come through Rome on the railroad to fight in the south, that the seat of Italian government remained there, including war department headquarters, and that the seat of Italian government remained there, including war department headquarters.

Written Before Planes
The only recognized international law was written before the airplane came into bombing use. Prof. John W. D. holds a city cannot be declared open until it is.

Sinus Trouble
Authorities Should Hand Out Doses of That Penicillin and Sweeter-Tempers of Afflicted.
By DAMON RUNYON

THE SINUS situation remains in the quagmire. However, I must not complain too much, for I find it gives me standing and has unlettered my tongue and given me something to talk about in any circle.

I was once a humbug in the company of ladies and gentlemen, unable to utter a word except to mumble yes and no, and a vagrant canine—who stood at all gatherings and was, in short, a social washbowl—was the most engaging conversationalist.

You let me into any party and give me a chance to pick out the most important people, and I guarantee you'll find me the "just-the-right" person. I'll mention my sinus trouble in any way and you will respond with, "Sinus trouble is a name of my physician and I guarantee that he is a good man, all right, but one who goes to it is even better and has miraculous success with some of his friends."

IF I LIKE, she will write down his name for me, or even call him up to make an appointment for me. Should the thought occur to me that if her croaker is the murmur, she says, it is odd she is still going on, I do not mention the matter. Sometimes I have a remedy that is helping her, and I mention the name or process in all seriousness. The chances are I try it out, too. I am wary of anything once, though sometimes I am not. If I am doing the right thing because I have my sinus trouble I will revert to my status of social outcast.

You see, sinus trouble is a nice polite way that brooks discussion in any company. I do not walk into a mixed gathering and say, "I have a sinus trouble in my stomach, kidney, bladder disorders. If I had same, but I would as a topic as strictly the Em. I have it in such variations that I am proud of it."

You ask me why I pick out a middle-aged dame, instead of a charming young one. Well, it is always an even-money bet that the middle-aged ones have sinus trouble, but you cannot be sure about the charming young one. Where would I be going with a charming young one, anyway? You ask me why the dames are not the middle-aged guys. Who is interested in anything that ails middle-aged guys, pray?

SOMEONE told me the other day that the new drug, penicillin, will cure sinus trouble. But I understand the government needs the known supply and a mugg like me cannot get it. The government is not worrying about a mugg like me, but it better start, because I have just noticed something.

I have noticed that when I sit down to the typewriter and the old sinus trouble is chugging away, my impulse is to write something real ornery about somebody. I mean, belt their brains out in print. Fortunately my impulse is so foreign to my nature that I am still able to maintain control over it and keep it in check.

But I can see that one day sinus trouble is going to be so tough that the impulse will out-fumble me, and I will be forced to let nature leak into my writings, like an injection of acid. I will bowl out someone or something, since the government is always handiest for its purpose, it behooves it to deliver a case of penicillin to me forthwith.

In return I will give the government a list of names of other writers that might need the penicillin roll. They have sinus trouble, too, but I observe that they do not have my self-control.

School

By Truman Twell

There are certain things to be done before Junior and Susie start to school. Their teeth must be fixed, their vision checked, their tonsils and adenoids removed and various minor symptoms investigated.

They must be barbered, laundered, dyed, cleaned, scrubbed, polished and put back into the clothing they have shucked as the summer wore on.

Their shoes must be looked after, the shoelaces rounded up, mended and put away in order and their belts and hair ribbons adjusted.

They must be equipped with adequate underwear, raincoats, hats, overcoats, shirts, dresses and assorted clothing for hot and cold weather.

The tools of their trade must be provided consisting of pencils, erasers and tablets and they promptly will mislay and never recover.

Whatever they happen to be doing at the minute must be hustled along to a sudden conclusion, so when school starts they can get it what passes for their undivided attention.

The bad habit of hanging around the house hours of the night must be broken so they can get plenty of sleep and be sharp in their school work.

It also must be broken so their evening families can have a little peace and quiet in the evening, on the pretense that Junior and Susie need more sleep.

All such precious privileges of carefree summer living as going to bed without a care, because they aren't going anywhere, not that they can notice it, must be retracted, instead of beginning of another school year and the inevitable building disciplines.

Quiet occasion for inspirational words about the importance of applying oneself to whatever one may be doing because it is the secret of success must be seized, for the art of appealing to the better nature of the scholars who almost flunked out last year.

School in general must be talked to as one of the greatest of all human institutions, comparable to the church and the home. Measles must be taken to dispose of the nation's school is only an interruption in the good life.

When these things have been done, Junior and Susie are as ready for school as they can be. About the only thing that stands between children and their unrestrained revelry to the primitive is the beginning of school, which rescues them every September just in time as it is doing again this year.

SHARE YOUR HOME WITH A WAR WORKER'S FAMILY

How the Walkers turned their spare space into a monthly income

"THE HOUSE OF VACANT ROOMS" that's what Mrs. Walker used to call the big old family home. Helen's room was left vacant when she married two years ago. Johnny's room had been empty since the day he joined the Navy. And, of course, the rumpus-room was just collecting dust.

IT WAS A PROBLEM, this big house. Mrs. Walker wasn't getting any younger. Naturally, she was finding it harder every day to keep all those rooms looking neat and clean—especially those empty rooms. As it was, the Walkers were finding it difficult to make ends meet, so getting help was out of the question.

THEN ONE EVENING the Carsons dropped in. Talk about the war brought up the question of housing, and Mrs. Carson proudly announced that she had, that very day, rented part of their home to a war worker's family. "The War Housing Center arranged the whole thing," said Mrs. Carson.

THE WALKERS TOOK THE TIP. And the next morning Mrs. Walker phoned the War Housing Center. One case in particular caught her interest—that of Mr. Barton who was going to quit his war job unless he could find some place where he, his wife and child, could live together.

THE WAR HOUSING CENTER ARRANGED FOR THE BARTONS to visit the Walkers, and the two families hit it off perfectly right from the start. In no time at all Mr. and Mrs. Walker had made complete arrangements for sharing their home. And the next day the Bartons moved in.

EVERYBODY'S HAPPY NOW—Mr. and Mrs. Barton have one bedroom. Their little son, Jackie, has the other bedroom, and what used to be the rumpus room is now their own private living room. Mrs. Barton helps Mrs. Walker with the general housework. And the two families have become fast friends.

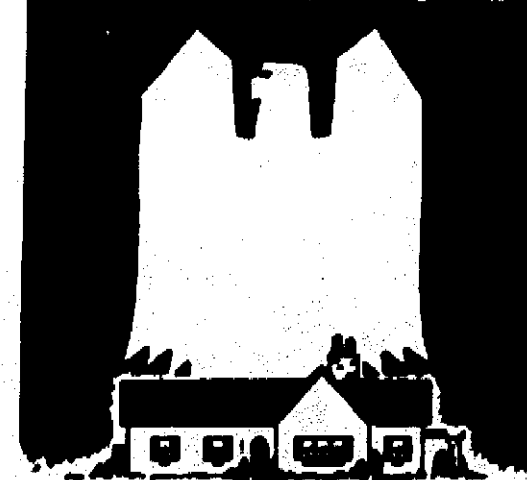

"WE ARE SHARING OUR HOME with a war worker's family" is what is printed on the window certificate awarded to the Walkers. And proud they can be. For in solving their own problem of spare space, they also helped Uncle Sam to solve a serious war housing problem in this area.

How to serve your country and earn extra income

List all vacancies. Reserve them for war workers and their families who need the shelter of homes, flats and apartments. Give Uncle Sam's workers first choice on your rental space by listing it at the War Housing Center. It's a generous, patriotic thing to do—and the extra income will help you with household bills, taxes, and the purchase of War Bonds. Come in or phone your War Housing Center today.

PROTEST BETS AT WYANDOT CO. FAIR

Ministerial Group Objects to Pari-Mutuel System.

Special to The Star
UPPER SANDUSKY, Sept. 7.—(The Star Staff) A group of ministers and church members of Wyandot county were protesting today at the Wyandot county fair, by the Wyandot county ministerial group, objects to the pari-mutuel system of betting at the fair, Sept. 14-17.

The group of ministers, who are protesting the pari-mutuel system, are of the opinion that the pari-mutuel system is a gambling system and is contrary to the principles of the great majority of the citizens of Wyandot county and that to tolerate the same would contribute to the corruption of public morals by encouraging evil habits among youth. The group of ministers is protesting the pari-mutuel system by picketing the fair grounds and by distributing leaflets.

A meeting of the board will be held on Wednesday or Thursday evening to consider the protest.

Brother ministers who voted to permit the pari-mutuel system did not, they say, do so to approve gambling but only to replace the illegal and often badly conducted track betting with the pari-mutuel system, which is a pool under the grandstand where it could be regulated and where it would pay taxes to the state and a fee to the fair association rather than to have all the profits go into the pockets of the under cover bookies.

Seven Drivers in Truck Convoy Face Charges

Seven Michigan men, drivers of government-owned trucks, were arrested by the state highway patrol about 10 p. m. Saturday on Route 22, north of Marion, on charges of driving 60 miles an hour. Each of the men posted bonds of $15 for appearance in municipal court today. The patrol reported that the men were en route from Detroit to Virginia in a truck convoy. The men were: Raymond Larsen, 37, George Robert Linsay Jr., 38, James Octave La Clair, 19, John Robert Sheffield, 37, Gilbert Beard Rucker, 39, and Holmes K. Rogers, 28, all of Detroit, and Eugene Diegel, 36, of Mt. Clemens, Mich.

90 Enemy U-Boats Sunk in Three Months

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The Navy disclosed today that of the more than 90 enemy U-boats sunk during May, June and July, 29 were destroyed by American forces alone.

Twenty-four of the submarines were sent to the bottom by American naval forces, the Navy said, and five were sunk by United States Army aircraft.

The Navy's disclosure came shortly after Secretary Knox told newsmen that although the submarine menace may appear to be less serious than a few months ago, the lack of enemy activity may be because Germany has withdrawn many U-boats to bases for repairs and refitting with additional anti-aircraft weapons before launching new attacks.

PRESIDENT BACKS OWI RULE ON NEWS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Following a decision to give the public the stark facts of the war, President Roosevelt has sent out letters to the Army, the Navy and the state department, instructing that the Office of War Information (OWI) was created for just that purpose and should have a free hand.

OWI in any future disagreements with the Army or Navy may appeal to the White House, the President indicated, even when the services might claim "military security" as the reason for withholding facts.

The letters did not more than restate the powers originally conferred on OWI more than a year ago—powers which OWI never succeeded in exercising fully—but they have tended, authoritative sources said, to restore OWI's damaged prestige and to remind the armed services that the agency's recommendations are not to be ignored.

It was disclosed Saturday that the government proposes to give the public a "more realistic" view of the war through news accounts, photographs and newsreels.

SCORES HOLE-IN-ONE

County Auditor Harry V. Mounts Blinks Tee Shot at Mar-O-Del.

The Amalgamated Order of Hole-in-One Makers added to its list Sunday the name of County Auditor Harry V. Mounts of 1191 East Center street.

Playing with his son-in-law, Charles Seebach at Detroit, Mich., and Paul Kelle of Carhart street Sunday afternoon, Mr. Mounts holed his tee shot on the 165-yard, par three No. 2 hole at the Mar-O-Del golf course. Mr. Mounts, who along with County Treasurer Marion E. Hunklin, operates the nine-hole Mar-O-Del course, used a No. 2 iron in registering the ace.

"It was just one of those lucky things that happen," Mr. Mounts said this morning. He completed the nine holes with a score of 47, "about par." Mr. Mounts, who averages from 45 to 50 for the nine hole route, said.

He is the second Marion man to score a hole in one at either of Marion's two golf courses this season. Earlier in the year Jimmie Mayden, manager of the Smith Clothing Co. on East Center street, registered an ace on the No. 6 hole at the Marion Country club.

Drivers' License Sale Gets Under Way Today

James E. Messenger, deputy registrar of motor vehicles reported today that approximately 60 drivers' licenses had been sold by noon today, the opening day of the annual sale throughout Ohio.

Albert Hinkle, a mechanic of 197 Senate street, first to receive a license for the year, was waiting when Mr. Messenger opened the office.

Five office clerks are working at the office and more will be added if necessary. Office hours are from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. The present license expires at midnight Sept. 30, and both drivers' and chauffeurs' licenses must be renewed by that date. Mr. Messenger reported that approximately 17,000 were issued in the county last year and he urged all applicants to register early in the month to avoid unnecessary congestion and waiting toward the end of the period.

Fliers Forced Down On Farm Near Mt. Gilad

Two Dayton men enroute from municipal airport in Cleveland to Dayton in a Taylorcraft airplane were forced down on the C. E. Sipes farm near Mt. Gilad shortly after noon yesterday by unfavorable weather.

The men, Leonard Ryan, 38, pilot of the small craft, and W. E. Molen of near Dayton, a passenger, successfully landed on the Sipes farm around 12:30 p. m. They remained on the farm until after 2 o'clock when they took off for the Marion airport. The state highway patrol, which was called to the Sipes farm to investigate the landing, reported that the two men landed at the Marion port and left for Dayton about an hour later after refueling.

WINS CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Captain James E. Suter, 23-year-old marine flier who shot down seven Japanese bombers in a single flight in the Solomon islands area last April 7, has been awarded the Congressional medal of honor by President Roosevelt, the Navy disclosed today.

Holiday Period Sees Allied Gains on All Fronts

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

This past long week-end has been a notable one for allied arms around the world.

Since invasion of France across the English channel is one of the paramount issues of the moment, I think we must place among the foremost of the developments an announcement in the Washington Evening Star. The Star's foreign affairs writer, Constantine Brown, says he learns on the highest authority that Gen. George C. Marshall, U. S. chief of staff, will be named commander in chief of any allied invasion of the continent from England.

This means, Brown points out, "that preparations for opening across the English channel are sufficiently advanced to select a leader." He emphasizes, however, that well-informed circles say this mustn't be taken as meaning the invasion is ready to begin within the next few weeks.

Double Squeeze on Hitler

Well, whether the invasion comes soon or late, what we have to keep in mind is this: When it does arrive, and we have an allied army safely ashore in France, it's going to place an unescapable squeeze on Herr Hitler, for he will be between the Russians on the east and the other allied nations on the west.

Fitting this announcement like a glove is the news of the continued Red advance against the Nazi right wing Soviet forces are smashing at the gates of the big industrial city and mining center of Stalingrad which is the key position of the Germans in the rich Donets basin.

Farther north the Reds have tightened their grip on the strategic Bryansk-Kiev railway. The Smolensk sector, along the route where Napoleon broke his back, the Germans have been counter-attacking fiercely, but Moscow reports all thrusts repulsed.

So goes the story on the eastern front until we have a composite picture of the great Nazi army being steadily beaten back along the entire 600 miles of the German right flank. The situation of the Hitlerites is indeed serious.

Rains Will Help Nazis

Perhaps the autumn rains, which are about due, may intervene to give the Germans a chance to pull their badly mauled line together. But then will come the cold weather to freeze the ground, and the Red attacks will be resumed.

Out in the southwest Pacific our General MacArthur is personally commanding a brilliant operation which has trapped the Japs in the Lae-Salamaua sector of New Guinea. Twenty thousand of the enemy have been caught in a vise which is closing to annihilate them.

Allied success continued in Italy. British and Canadian forces moved steadily inland from their 40-mile beachhead, overrunning about a dozen villages in yesterday's operations.

Meanwhile the Rome radio continues to fish for peace.

EUROPE

on high authority in Washington that General Marshall, U. S. army chief of staff, would become commander-in-chief of the United Nations in the European theater.

A Swedish traveler said the allied drive into Italy came as Hitler and his army leaders were quarreling over whether to make a stand along the 20 river in Italy or pull back behind the Alps, with the intent to corporal said to be insisting upon defenses at the Po.

BOY HURT BY FALL

Donald Johnson, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Johnson of 561 Mound street, was admitted to City hospital last night for treatment of a fractured left leg. Police said they were told the boy fell from a telephone pole in an alley back of the High Speed Service station on the corner of East Church and High streets. Donald had climbed the pole to try to get some pigeons off the roof of a building. He was taken to the home of Rev. H. C. Ahrens at 282 East Church street by Rev. Ahrens and W. C. Houpt. Smith's ambulance transferred the boy to City hospital.

ITALIAN PEACE BID HINTED IN CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—(The Star Staff) President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill renew discussions today amid mounting signs they are aware of a momentous development in the shape of a definite peace bid from Italy.

Indirect peace plans emanating from Rome some time and Benito Mussolini might be an agency through formal overtures would be made on the way to Washington.

Mr. Churchill has been on the side of the Atlantic since the war and while his current position appears to have been laid aside as yet has exhibited no intention to return to England.

It is reported that the British had completed their plans for months ahead. It was reported that Gen. George C. Marshall, U. S. chief of staff, was chosen to lead the invasion of Europe from the British base.

On the highest authority it was learned that Marshall was commander-in-chief of the United Nations in the European theater.

Nations in the European theater for a possible drive across the channel, are rather well advanced. There was a hint in General's address at Harvard University yesterday that the postwar planning had been done by the allies. The machinery of the Anglo-American chiefs of staff and command as for the security of the world, we are going to keep it working and in the order after the war, proceed to a good many years, not only we have set up some working arrangement to keep the peace until we know that it is an arrangement which will really speak of protection we must have from danger and aggression and which already we have had to seek across two vast world wars.

OHIO PLANTS

these plants alone, the director said.

Absences of women average 8.8 per cent and the aircraft and aircraft parts industries have the greatest absenteeism of industrial groups with 10.3 per cent for all workers and 17.4 per cent for women, Keenan reported.

He said Toledo and Youngstown with 4.9 per cent averages had the lowest absenteeism rates of larger Ohio cities while Canton was highest with 8.4 per cent followed by Cincinnati with 8.2. Akron's rate is 8.5. Cleveland's 7.3, Columbus' 6.3 and Dayton's 6.7.

One conclusion reached from the reports was that absenteeism tended to rise as the work week lengthened, Keenan said.

Minor causes reported included visit with relatives in the armed forces, care of children and other household duties, funerals, hunting for living quarters, visits to draft and ration boards and shopping.

Men are absent from work most often on Mondays and Saturdays, while women are away most frequently on Wednesdays and Thursdays, Keenan said.

LABOR DAY MISHAPS TAKE LIVES OF 18

By The Associated Press
The work in the few days which shut down the country for holiday set-backs to their production as the state counted in accidents, 14 of which were fatal.

Deaths of children and others of the same time were the result of classroom accidents. Some schools waited for next week before reopening after the summer recess.

A plane crash near Akron Sunday killed 2nd Lt. William J. Mallon Jr., 21, and his father, Police Lt. William J. Mallon.

Traffic deaths included John M. Clark, 31, of Cincinnati, fatally injured in a gasoline truck crash when he swerved the vehicle to miss a car, and Gibson Reed, 31, of Youngstown, struck and fatally injured by an automobile.

Edward J. Breen, 48, of Cleveland, was killed by a passenger train in the Pennsylvania railroad yards there where he was a crew conductor.

FIGHT OVER G. O. P. SEEN AT MACKINAC

By The Associated Press
MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., Sept. 7.—A stiff fight in full council meeting over a reported compromise declaration was conceded by some members as a strong possibility today before adjournment of the two-day session of the Republican post-war advisory council.

A tentative agreement by the committee was reported to call for American cooperation with other nations to preserve peace by any necessary means, but reserving American freedom of action within constitutional bounds.

While the resolution was said to have been approved unanimously by the committee of six headed by Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, a reservationist, other council members were reported displeased and as threatening to take sharp exception when the proposal reached the full council in executive session.

The foreign policy group was the first to reach a tentative agreement among the two temporary committees created to formulate basic foreign and domestic resolutions for guidance of the Republican 1944 platform-makers.

The domestic committee, headed by Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and including Governors Dewey of New York and Bricker of Ohio as members, remained in session until long after midnight, reminding veteran politicians of national convention platform labors.

Funeral Services Held for Mrs. Achsa Pitts
Funeral services for Mrs. Achsa Moore Pitts, 80, of 260 Patten street were conducted this afternoon in the Merle H. Hughes Mortuary on Mt. Vernon avenue by Rev. D. N. Kelly of Wesley Methodist church. Burial was made in Claiborne cemetery at Richmond.

Mrs. Pitts died in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Gladys Curen, at 260 Patten street, Saturday at 1:45 p. m.

A resident of Marion 24 years, she came here from Minneapolis, Minn. Born Aug. 30, 1863 in Richmond, she was a daughter of John and Martha Gearhart Moore, the father a native of New York and the mother of Pennsylvania. Aug. 28, 1884 she was married to James E. Pitts in Union county. He died Nov. 28, 1931 at Schell Lake, Wis.

Surviving besides Mrs. Curen, the daughter in whose home she died, are a son, George A. Pitts of Paynesville, Minn., five grandchildren and a brother, J. M. Moore of Eugene, Ore.

NOMINATIONS MADE AT MEETING OF 40 ET S

Letter Received from J. V. Ruth in Ft. Benning Hospital.

Marion County Veterans No. 48, 40 et al. held first nomination of officers for the coming year at a meeting last night in the Legion Dugout. Further nominations and election will be held at the next meeting, Oct. 4.

Two letters from John V. Ruth, chief de gate, were read. He is confined to the paratroopers hospital at Ft. Benning, Ga. after being injured while enroute to Atlanta, where he is in government service.

Glenn E. Allen, Naval Foreman, J. W. Llewellyn, D. J. MacDonald, William Arnold, Al Dwyer and Jewell Ralston gave reports on the grand jubilee held last month in Cincinnati. Dr. Harry A. Hoopes of Lallie was elected delegate to the Promenade Nationale which will be held in Omaha, Neb. Sept. 21-22. Charles Howard and William E. Maize were chosen as alternates. A Spanish time supply was served following the meeting by Naval Foreman and his committee assisted by Mrs. Foreman.

JOHN CUDAHY, FORMER U. S. DIPLOMAT, KILLED

Broken Neck Suffered in Fall from Horse Fatal.

By The Associated Press
MILWAUKEE, Sept. 7.—John Cudahy, 55-year-old director of the Wisconsin council of defense and former United States diplomat, was killed yesterday in following his favorite sport—horseback riding.

Cudahy was pronounced dead of a broken neck by Dr. T. R. Murphy, of the County General hospital after his body was found on his 250-acre country estate at nearby Brown Deer. Sheriff's deputies theorized that Cudahy was thrown when his horse stumbled in trying to jump a small drainage ditch.

Cudahy was named ambassador to Poland in 1933 by President Roosevelt and served until 1937 when he was made minister to Elze. He became ambassador to Belgium in 1940 and held that post until 1943 when he returned home.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Typhoid Merely Quiescent

IT SEEMS strange to recall that only since 1916 have we been certain of the way to prevent typhoid fever. This was when the army's troops entered Mexico. They were all immunized against typhoid and after a campaign during which they encountered all sorts of drinking water, they returned without a single case of typhoid having been reported in the command. I talked to medical officers in 1917 who had been on that expedition and they said it was noticeable that the older officers would sit around with a kind of lost expression, as if they missed something. Finally one of them one night slapped his knee and said, "By Golly I know what it is—no typhoid."

And that was only twenty-seven years ago.

It is true the United States Army began universal vaccination against typhoid before that—as early as 1909. And in 1911 there was a Manoeuvre Division at San Antonio, Texas, with a strength of 12,000 men who completed their manoeuvres with two cases of typhoid developing (both in men who had somehow escaped vaccination). But these manoeuvres were conducted over terrain where there was fairly good supervision of water supply and the Mexican expedition, as I said, moved around in a completely unsanitary district.

The record is a glaring contrast with that of a division at Jacksonville, Florida, in 1898, where 2,693 cases of typhoid were reported with 248 deaths.

Altho Wright proposed typhoid vaccination before 1900, and the British tried it out during the Boer War. But right in the middle of it they began to wobble. The British do everything well and when they wobble, they make a masterpiece of it. Some staff officer thought the vaccination took too much time, caused too much temporary invalidism, so he overrode the medical officers and about half the vaccinations were incomplete. The result was that the British had a great deal of typhoid during the Boer triumph.

This experience almost threw the whole procedure into disrepute. If you are going to vaccinate for typhoid, do it thoroughly and completely.

Typhoid, like several other diseases we mentioned this week—diphtheria and smallpox—is almost unknown now, and this is likely to induce a false sense of security. Because it is only latent. We had in my hospital four cases of typhoid last year. The first time the faculty had had an opportunity to demonstrate this classic condition for years. They were all from one family of Mexicans and we found that instead of using the city water they had camped in a vacant lot and used a spring.

Of course, all alert communities have their water inspected and sterilized which has cut down the typhoid rate, but such experiences as the above show that individual vaccination is still the only certain way of protection.

The age at which typhoid vaccination should be carried out is 5 to 8 years. Re-vaccination should probably be done if you are going on a journey outside the country.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

TOO LATE. I saw Dicky's involuntary frown, and realized that I should not have mentioned Marion's name before the man, Crump, who had brought us the strange story of the message which had been entrusted to him. But I could not feel too much compassion for the man's apparent stupidity and general stupidity in the girl whose silent appeal for aid he had needed, had much impressed me.

"Better read it," Dicky said heavily, and then he turned to Crump. "Of course you know what it is in this?"

Didn't Open It

"Only what is in the outside piece of paper," the man replied with dignity. "The faded piece inside was none of my business, and I didn't open it."

"On of course," Dicky amended hastily. "I meant only the outside piece. Why not read that aloud, or would you rather not?"

My eyes already had skimmed the brief appeal Marion had written to be handed stealthily to the first person she might be able to contact. With my heart aching for the terrible plight of our hapless girl, I read aloud the words she had written so carefully, for evidently she had prepared her message in advance, holding it in readiness to send out at the first chance she could snatch.

"To the one who finds this," the note began. "If you are kind, and willing to help a girl in great danger of her life, will you take this note and its enclosure to Mrs. Richard Graham, Hotel Lansfield, New York City. She will pay you liberally, I am sure. But, please hurry!"

Dicky sprang to his feet as I read the last words.

Dicky Wants His Wallet

"My money is in the other room," he began. "Madge, do you mind going in there and bringing out my wallet?"

I knew that my courteous husband would never dream of sending me on such an errand except that he did not wish to leave me alone with the messenger who had come to us so strangely. I rose quickly to my feet, but the man, Crump, put out his hand protestingly.

A Slight Retainer

"Besides," he added swiftly, as the man's face showed no sign of acquiescence, "you may be able to help us—and our friend—further, and we would feel much freer to ask you for such aid if you were willing to accept, let us say, a slight retainer. That is what a lawyer takes when he starts helping with a case, isn't it?"

"Well, if you put it that way," he said reluctantly.

"I hurried into the bedroom, and brought back Dicky's wallet. He took it from me, went to the writing desk, with his back to us, and coming back a minute later with a sealed envelope.

Not to be Examined Now

"Stick it in your pocket and don't look into it until you're outside," he advised. "Then we shan't quarrel over it. Madge, don't you think you would better read the inside of the letter? Then we can tell Mr. Crump if there's anything he can do for us right away."

I picked up the letter obediently, but before I could read it, Crump spoke again.

"There's something else I want to tell you," he said. "I almost forgot it. After the meal was over, and they stood up to go, I helped the girl on with her coat. And when they had gone, right where she'd been standing was a piece of filmy paper. I picked it up, unfolded it, and there was a queer sort of drawing on it. I thought I'd better bring it along for you to see."

I HELD OUT my hand, and the man named Crump put into it the filmy piece of paper which he said had a "queer sort of drawing" on it. I took one searching look at it, then held it out to Dicky.

"Look!" I exclaimed breathlessly. "It's a key, and a lock!"

"Yes," he said at last. "You're right. But there's no writing on it. Yes, there is, too! Clever girl! She's put an initial M on each end of the key. You'd hardly notice it, or did you?"

She Saw Them

"Yes, I saw them," I said, a bit faintly.

"I'd have laid a sizeable wager you did!" my husband retorted.

Then he glanced significantly at the enclosure from Marion which I still held in my hand, and I rapidly unfolded it and read its contents. For several seconds I kept my eyes fixed upon it, pretending to be still reading it, but in reality planning what was best to do.

Finally I raised my eyes to Dicky's.

"There is nothing in this which will necessitate our taking up any more of Mr. Crump's time," I said. "But—I would like to ask a great favor of you. I went on, turning to the man.

He twisted the hat he held in his hands in embarrassed fashion.

"Anything you want, ma'am," he said.

"If you see that woman come into the restaurant again, can you telephone me here before you serve her?"

"Yes, ma'am, I can manage that," he said, while Dicky interjected a surprised "Here? To this hotel?" obviously remembering Milner's listening posts. But I lifted a signaling finger in my husband's direction, and he fell silent.

"Please remember not to say anything except what I tell you," I went on earnestly. "Do not give any indication where you are. If I answer the telephone, say: 'This is Mr. Crump, Mrs. Graham. That order of lace is ready for you. It has just come in.' If some one else answers the telephone, and I am not here say: 'Will you please tell Mrs. Graham that Mr. Crump called and says that her order of lace is ready? It has just come in.' Would you like to write that down?"

"No, ma'am. A faint smile touched his lips. "I'm used to remembering orders. I'm to tell you or anyone who answers that your order of lace is ready, and has just come in. I'll do that the minute I see her come in the door."

"Thank you," I said, and then hesitatingly he spoke again:

"I can't help but see, ma'am, that the young lady means a lot to you. Suppose I see her some place else, or run across something I think you ought to know—?"

"Telephone me at once, telling me there's something gone wrong with my order and that you'd like to see me. You either can come here, or name an address where I can see you. But if it's that restaurant where you saw my friend, don't name it, simply call it your office."

"I understand," he said, "and I'll keep my eyes open. Now, is there anything else I can do for you, for if there isn't I ought to be getting back."

"No, indeed," I assured him. "And thank you so much for a wonderful service."

"Then I'll say good-bye, ma'am," he said, with a stiff little bow.

"Good-bye," I answered, as Dicky took him to the door, shook hands with him cordially, and saw him into the corridor. Then, coming back, he slumped into a chair opposite me.

"What do you know?" he began, but he never finished the sentence, for from the bedroom came a rush of feet, and Ronald, white-faced and with eyes almost crazed with excitement, came up to me and grasped my shoulder with strong clenching hands.

"Now you'll believe me!" he exclaimed. "It was Marion I saw! And what are we waiting here for? Why aren't we going after her?"

Katherine and my father had followed him into the room, but at his outburst, I saw my kinswoman slip back into the bedroom, and guessed her errand. Then Dicky crossed to me, and took hold of the boy's hands.

"You are hurting Aunt Madge, Ronald," he said in quiet, soothing tones, "and are doing Marion no good. Come over here and sit down, and let's talk things over."

The boy released me quickly with a contrite, mumble. "Sorry, Aunt Madge!" But he faced Dicky stormily.

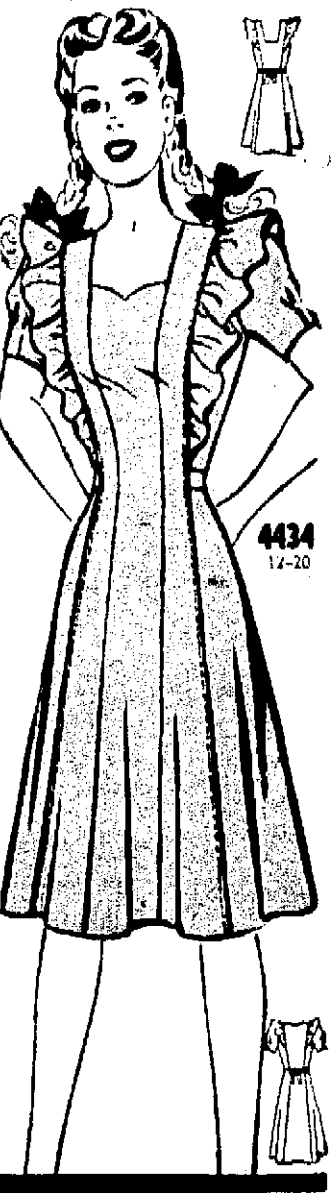

"I haven't time to talk," he cried. "I'm going down to that place and scout around there until I find Marion, and nobody's going to stop me!"

He rushed for the door. My father's voice sounded in quiet but grim command.

"Take him, Richard!" he said.

In order to maintain continuity in "Flash Gordon" and "Thimble Theater," both Monday and today's features appear today. To provide space, "Bringing Up Father" and "Annie Rooney" are omitted. Publication of both will be resumed tomorrow. Double use of "Flash Gordon" and "Thimble Theater" is necessitated by the Labor Day holiday when no Star was published. The same condition applies to "The Gumps," two strips of which appear today.
